Important Notes

- The definition of 'employee' includes labour only sub-contractors, hired or borrowed persons undertaking study or work experience, and volunteers
- Previous advice was that employers had a legal obligation to retain Employers' Liability certificates in a readable form for 40 years. However, although you no longer need to retain the certificate, employers are strongly advised to keep, as far as is possible, a complete record of their employers' liability insurance. This is because some diseases can appear decades after exposure to their cause and former or current employees may decide to make a claim against their employer for the period they were exposed to the cause of their illness

Employers that fail to hold the necessary insurance details risk having to meet the costs of such claims themselves.

- Associated companies, i.e. those in which you do not have a controlling interest, may no longer be 'sheltered' under group policies and must have Employers' Liability policies in their own name for a minimum limit of £5 million any one occurrence
- You must display a copy of the certificate of insurance where your employees can easily read it. Since 1 October 2008 you have been allowed to display your certificate electronically, provided your employees know how and where to find the certificate and have reasonable access to it
- An incident/claims declaration will be required at renewal. We recommend that you investigate before signing this declaration
- The policy states that no admission, offer, promise or indemnity must be made by the insured in the event of a claim
- It is important to report every incident to Perkins Slade and to maintain an accident record book (which must be compliant with Data Protection Legislation)

Liability Claims Notification Requirements

Your contract of insurance does have certain conditions imposed, which may be summarised as follows:

- You are required to give insurers immediate written notice with full particulars of any claims or circumstances which may give rise to a claim, regardless of any excess that you have to bear under your policy cover, or whether you think that you may be legally liable
- Every letter, claim, writ, summons and process in connection with such circumstances must be forwarded to Perkins Slade immediately on receipt
- Written notice must be given to insurers immediately you have knowledge of any prosecution, inquest or inquiry in connection with any circumstances, which may give rise to liability under the policy

Strict timescales are now in place to direct the handling of claims, and if these are not adhered to it may mean insurers will be obliged to admit liability and pay the claim.

Therefore it is important that:

- An investigation of every incident should be carried out whilst those involved, including witnesses, still have a clear idea of the circumstances, and a written report should be produced
- Every incident, particularly those involving personal injury, should be reported to us immediately it happens and we will advise you what to do next. Please ensure procedures are in place for all documentation to reach us as quickly as possible

In order to achieve this, we would ask that you notify us immediately of any incident that involves:

- A fatal accident
- Any allegations of libel/slander
- Any investigation under any child protection legislation
- Any circumstance involving damage to third party property
- An injury involving either referral to or actual hospital treatment
- Any allegations of professional negligence ie arising out of tuition, coaching or advice given

An injury is defined as:

- Loss of sight (whether temporary or permanent)
- Any fracture other than to fingers, thumbs or toes
- Any amputation, dislocation of the shoulder, hip, knee or spine
- Any head injury that requires medical treatment (doctor or hospital)
- Loss of consciousness caused by asphyxia or by exposure to a harmful substance or biological agent
- Any injury resulting from electrical shock or burn, leading to unconsciousness or requiring resuscitation or admittance to hospital for more than 24 hours
- Any other injury leading to hypothermia, heat induced illness or to unconsciousness which requires resuscitation or admittance to hospital for more than 24 hours

Please note the above list is not exhaustive and if you are unsure as to whether an incident should be reported, then please do not hesitate to contact Perkins Slade claims department for further advice.

We would remind you that in NO circumstances should you admit liability or agree to pay for any damage caused as this may prejudice the position of insurers and COULD result in the withdrawal of any indemnity.

Finally, please note that this is a liability policy where insurers decide if negligence attaches to you. Therefore any payments you make to third parties will not necessarily be reimbursed

Incident Recording Guidelines

- We would recommend that a designated person within your organisation is made responsible to record any reportable accident

Records must be kept for at least 6 years, and longer where it involves a person under the age of 18 years. Names and addresses of any possible witnesses should also be recorded.

- Businesses are legally obliged to have an accident book which is compliant with data protection legislation. The book is available from HSE Books
- The accident book must contain the following information relating to all reportable accidents or dangerous occurrences:
 - Date and time of accident
 - Place where accident occurred
 - A brief description of the circumstances
 - Method by which the event was reported
 - As regards a person at work – full name; occupation; nature of injury; age
 - As regards a person not at work – full name; status (eg player); nature of injury; age

Reporting Incidents to the Health & Safety Executive (HSE)

You may also have obligations under the RIDDOR regulations to report incidents to the HSE. For further information visit the HSE website.

Insurers Comments on Potential Abuse Claims

It is a policy requirement that the insured declares all claims or incidents that may give rise to a claim.

This relates to incidents where there is a breach of the child protection policy which, when triggered, the police and social services are involved. As a notifiable incident this needs to be passed to insurers immediately.

Only formal allegations of abuse eg allegations from the victim or triggered by a whistleblowing policy, which calls for a response and investigation by the police and social services, need to be reported. General suspicions or unsubstantiated allegations, which do not trigger the policy, do not need to be reported.
